Director's Corner

You're going to get me some of that trust fund money, right? I served more time than you, let me speak to someone else! What can you get for me, I'm a veteran? These are a few statements our staff and I receive on a routine basis. These are not statements with politeness or inquiry, they are the demands of those who don't understand service. I truly believe veterans served to protect our country and to defend our colors without thinking of reimbursement. Veterans receive from the emotion of placing their hand over their heart during the national anthem, by reading the grave markers of veteran friends, or by attending Veterans Day services.

During our military careers, we focused on mission accomplishment and teamwork, not about what we'd receive after leaving the military. I understand that we served our country, but whether drafted or selective service, it doesn't entitle us to anything. Now please note, this demanding attitude only applies to a few, but when witnessed by our civilian counterparts, it projects a negative veteran perception for all. Fortunately, agencies and society provides for our veterans ensuring compensation for service. If you incurred an illness or injury while serving, yes, you should be service connected. If you shop at a store that provides a veteran discount, yes, you should take advantage of it. If someone recognizes you for your service, yes, you should acknowledge it and reflect back on your achievements. My point is veterans' compensation and acknowledgements are well deserved and will continue...they just don't need to be demanded. For the majority who are not mentioned in the first sentences, thank you for your service and for leading by example.

Maj. Gen. Michael Berry to keynote Annual Trust Fund Dinner

Maj. Gen. Michael Berry, Cabinet Secretary of the Department of Military Affairs, will keynote the 6th Annual Friends of Delaware Veterans Dinner on Saturday, Nov. 9, at Dover Downs Hotel and Casino Rollins Center.

The annual black tie optional fund-raising dinner, hosted by the Friends of Delaware Veterans, is the primary event that benefits the Delaware Veterans Trust Fund. The 6 - 9 p.m. affair includes entertainment, a plated dinner and silent and live auctions. Tickets are $100 each or $1,000 for an 8-person sponsor table.

Under the auspices of the Delaware Commission of Veterans Affairs, the Veterans Trust Fund assists veterans residing in Delaware with emergency financial aid. Its one-time hand up grants have prevented cutoff of utilities, repossessions, made emergency repairs to homes and sometimes put food on the table. The Friends' board is comprised of 11 military veterans who work pro bono in collaboration with the Commission.

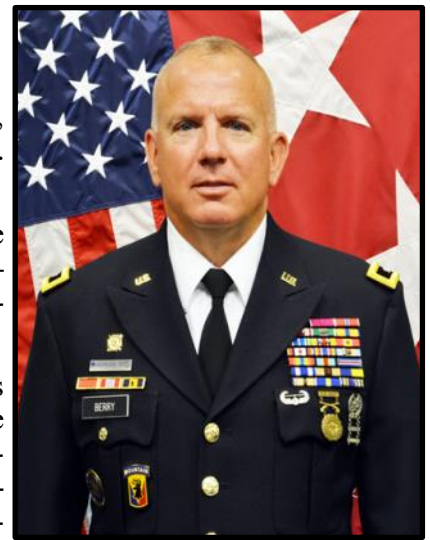

“We are honored to have Delaware’s top military leader as our guest,” said Dave Skocik, Friends president. “General Berry’s more than three decades of military service includes Afghanistan, where he was attached to the 86th Infantry Brigade Combat Team in support of Operation Enduring Freedom. He understands the challenges faced by those in uniform.”

General Berry assumed his duties as Delaware’s Adjutant General on March 1, 2019. He is responsible for the mission readiness of all Delaware National Guard units, including over 1500 Soldiers and 1100 Airmen for both federal and state missions. His military career began in September 1988 when he enlisted in the Delaware Army National Guard under the Reserve Officers’ Training Corps Simultaneous Membership Program. He received his commission through the Reserve Officers’ Training Corps at the University of Delaware in May 1989.

General Berry earned a Bachelor of Arts in Criminal Justice from University of Delaware in 1989 and is a 1990 Delaware State Police Graduate obtaining his Law Enforcement Certification. He is also a 2008 graduate of the United State Army War College, receiving his Masters in Strategic Studies. He has served in numerous command positions, including 262nd Heavy Equipment Maintenance Company, 160th Engineer Company, Delaware Army National Guard Officer Candidate School, 193rd Regiment Regional Training Institute, 72nd Troop Command, Land Component Commander, as well as Director of Joint Staff and Special Assistant to the Adjutant General, Joint Force Headquarters, Delaware.

I CHALLENGE YOU!
RUN FOR LIFE.
22 MILES IN 22 DAYS.

STOP SOLDIER SUICIDE
#22ADays22TooMany

Every day over 22 veterans decide to take their own lives. 22in22 is designed to raise awareness and to shine the light on hope.

This was our 4th year for VET FEST and the biggest year yet. Over 2000 people attended the one day Vet Fest. JP Morgan/Chase sponsored Remembering our Fallen Towers which holds over 5400 names of those lost since 9/11 either in theater or suicide.

There was a 5K, 10K Ruck, a family walk, a bike run, a parade with 18 WW II, Korean and Tuskegee Airmen rode in Military Jeeps and Humvee's through the streets. Veterans age from 87-101 years old. The oldest Mr. Arthur Goldstein who was under General Patton and contributed to the liberation of Dachau Concentration Camp in Germany. A great event for all, with music, food and fun; for a great cause to bring awareness of Stop Soldier Suicide.

Brian DiSabatino (CEO of VET FEST) stops to talk and thank Arthur Goldstein.

USAF Ray Firmani WW II B-17 Pilot/Tuskegee Airmen John Dumas/Dr Blakey President of the Tuskegee Airmen Dover Chapter/Airmen Rudolph Viguei USAF

22in22 was started in 2015 by Jacob DiSabatino while he was a junior at St. Mark's High School as a way to draw awareness to the epidemic of soldier suicides. According to 22in22, approximately 120,000 have died at their own hand since September 11th while less than 7,000 have died from enemy fire. DiSabatino, now a senior at The Citadel, chose the organization Stop Soldier Suicide as his partner and together they have been able to raise $50,000 in Delaware and $100,000 nationally. The initiative asks participants to create an activity for 22 straight days, to raise awareness about the epidemic via the #22adayis22toomany hash tag, and collect funds. Participants run, walk, do yoga, pray, lift weights, or walk dogs. Delaware Technical and Community College joined the cause in 2015 and has all three campuses participating annually. Supporters are also creating campaigns on Facebook, supporting non-profit Stop Soldier Suicide.

Stacy L. Pearsall got her start as an Air Force photographer at the age of 17. During her time in service, she traveled to over 41 countries, and attended the Military Photojournalism Program at S.I. Newhouse School of Public Communications at Syracuse University from which she is a 50 Forward distinguished graduate. During three combat tours, she earned the Bronze Star Medal and Air Force Commendation with Valor for combat actions in Iraq. Though combat disabled and retired from military service, Pearsall has not let her disabilities hold her back. With her service animal America's VetDogs Charlie by her side, she continues to work worldwide as an independent photographer and is an author, educator, military consultant, BRAVO748 public speaker and founder of the Veterans Portrait Project.

We had the opportunity to surprise Veteran Harry Grandel with a birthday cake to help celebrate his 97th birthday, exactly on the day of the photo session, August 14th!! Through a little planning with his daughter, Susan Scott, we were able to get the rest of the family to join in on the surprise. Thank you everyone that stayed to sing happy birthday to Harry! Brian Conley Veterans Resiliency Center opens in Middletown

The project was led by Kevin Conley, a U.S. Army veteran who was injured in a truck roll-over accident in Afghanistan and experienced the difficulty of readjusting to life after surgeries and post-traumatic stress disorder.

Thanks to all! After almost three years of renovation to the 1881 home we are open.. Our homeless vets. Resiliency Center on 104 South Broad Street in Middletown currently has nine veterans living there and we have been open only five months. We have placed another three vets in V.A. supported independent housing already!! Great things are happening for great vets who just needed a safe place to rebuild their lives. We have hired a staff of three folks to oversee and support the Conley family...Our biggest challenge now is finding supportive donors for personnel salaries...Major Kevin Conley and Specialist Dylan Conley are taking them on a fishing trip tomorrow!!! Food donations are coming in steady and we just received a load of Bear Meat!!! (Killed in Pennsylvania not Middletown!!!!)

Victory Village: “Serve those who have honorably served our country.”

Victory Village, a transitional home for Veterans in Middletown, is celebrating five years of helping Veterans make the transition from the military to civilian life. To date, over 50 veterans have experienced the bucolic setting of an 1850 Georgian Plantation home situated on five acres with a beautiful Chapel, donated by the Pettinaro Development Co. and an in-ground pool serviced by Progressive Pool Co. The Home can accommodate 24 veterans and four homeless individuals needing shelter during ‘code blue’ winter times. The property has been developed through the generosity and caring of the community. The entire residence was restored and decorated by donations of furniture and clothing as well as hundreds of hours by volunteers who took on the work of mechanics, painters, landscapers, cooks and transportation drivers. Since there are no paid employees, the Home has been maintained by volunteers who understand and appreciate the role that our veterans have played in protecting not only our country but allowing everyone to live in the land of the FREE and the HOME of the brave.

During this summer, I was reminded of the great quote, “A Friend in need is a Friend indeed” as we had several situations that made me recall the cry for help when we were trying to restore the place and align it with local and state codes. First, there was three years of accumulated clearing that the county informed us that it had to be removed. Then, there was a break in the underground water line and; then, the main holding tank for water burst! WHAT TO DO! Well! I went back to the people who stepped up the first time when I put out the call for help (knowing that it had to be volunteers and pro bono). I called upon Mike McCarthy and John Jacklyn, two Viet Nam Veterans who have been our on- site volunteers and ‘Jack of all trades’ for years, if they would take the lead and help get things squared away. First, I called Ed Capadano, American Builders and Contractors who immediately sent a mechanic, named Jayson and a piece of equipment that allowed them to repair the pipe. Then a call to Steve Masterson, Waste Masters, who donated and delivered four large containers to take away all the debris, that was gathered by Mike O’Neil and his band of merry men from Christ the Cornerstone Church.

Then, I called Joe Fiducioso, Climate Solutions Services, Inc., who generously replaced our heat pumps two years ago during the winter. He, personally came and replaced our water tank as well as recruiting the Defiant Brotherhood MC of Delaware came and donated food for the veterans.

This is what it is all about! People helping people because they care! I apologize to all who I have not mentioned, but I realize that you did it for the veterans and not for selfish, self-serving personal recognition. THE VETERANS AT VICTORY VILLAGE THANK YOU AND GOD BLESS YOU!

The Wall That Heals Was Displayed In Sussex County

A Program of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund – Founders of the Wall

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7234 was honored to have hosted “The Wall That Heals” for the local communities in Delaware and Maryland. We could not have accomplished this successful and memorable event without our hard working Volunteers and all our generous Sponsors. We hope that hosting “The Wall That Heals” has brought healing and inspiration to those who lost loved ones, friends, and neighbors who served in the Vietnam War; and to all those Vietnam Veterans who returned and still carry the wounds of war. These heroes were a model of Service, Valor, and Sacrifice. Please keep and respect the American ideals and freedoms these heroes fought for.

A Candlelight Memorial Service and a Ceremony Honoring the Service and Sacrifice of Vietnam Veterans, including presentation of Quilts of Valor, were heavily attended. Officials estimated over 8,500 visitors came to Ocean View to learn about the Wall, heal as they paid respects, and attend ceremonies.

On a hot Fall day, Thursday, October 3rd the official “Wall That Heals” was trucked in from Dover to lower Delaware. It remained in place at Ocean View, for 5 days, 24 and 7. Sponsored mainly by VFW Post#7234 and back-dropped by the Indian River Bay, the 146 interlocked panels etched with names of 58,200 plus casualties from the War in Vietnam would stand proudly, inviting all to come, honor and marvel at the bravery of our American fighting men and women. Called specifically, the “Wall That Heals”, the main intent of it’s presence is to offer healing and peace to the many who remain troubled and grieving.

Sussex County Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter #1105 provided much of the heavy lifting and support. Many VFW 7234 members are also VVA 1105 members as well, so a strong comradie was already evident. The VFW auxiliary lent amazing grace and gentleness to the scene. Standard military protocol governed the public program, ending with “TAPS”. Both organizations shared wreath laying, the reading of names and hospitality.

"It's been a long process," said Chapter VP Paul Davis, who will serve as keynote speaker at the chapter's annual Veterans Day ceremony on Monday, November 11, at 2 p.m. In brief overview, after being ceded 1 ½ acres by Kent County in 2007, the chapter raised private funds through brick sales to honor Kent Countians lost in Vietnam.

Dedicated on a snowy Veterans Day in 2009, the park grew to include memorials to Gold Star Mothers and Families, and to those lost in Korea and the Middle East. Later inclusions were a Huey 'Dustoff' helicopter, a War Dog memorial, and a POW/MIA Chair of Honor that completed the park in 2017. "It was our way of living up to the VVA motto, 'Never again will one generation of veterans abandon another,'" said Mr. Davis.

The park is a source of community pride with the city and state adding signs to direct visitors to it. One of those signs attracted an out of state visitor who, along with her children, spent a summer afternoon visiting and learning about the memorials and their history. Her visit was followed by a heartfelt letter of thanks and a contribution. The chapter responded by offering an invitation for her and her children to lead the crowd in the pledge of allegiance at the coming ceremony, which she accepted.

The coins can be purchased at the Nov. 11 ceremony or, beginning Sept. 18, at Forney's Too Gift Shop, 102 W. Loockerman St. Dover. "We are proud to be part of this effort," said Gary Knox, store owner.

Masonic Charities of Delaware contributes to Veteran Service Dog program

"Service dogs make a dramatic difference in the lives of disabled veterans and we are extremely grateful for this donation," said Joe Startt Jr., president of Kent County Chapter 850, Vietnam Veterans of America, as he accepted a $5,000 donation from Curtis Cole, president of Masonic Charities of Delaware.

The CASH (Canines Assisting Service Heroes) program is a 501(c)(19) entity that trains service dogs for disabled Delaware veterans. It has resulted in multiple dogs having been donated and four in training with the number of applicants growing. The presentation was made August 19 at Masonic Lodge Union 7, Wyoming Mill Road, Dover.

It takes about a year and $10,000 to train a service dog. "To be very honest, our trainer and we grow very close to the dogs and giving them away is difficult, but we know the difference they make to the recipients," said Mr. Startt. The dogs are covered for inoculations, and health care in follow up to their donation to ensure they are well cared for, according to Nelson Miller of Riedel K-9 Training in Middletown, the contracted trainer for the program.

Call 302-242-8708 or email joanstartt@comcast.net for more information on the program.

Lewes Military Banner Project Celebrates Veterans and Reunites Local Sister with her Brother

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 17—inspired by the 100th Anniversaries of the American Legion and its Auxiliary as military service organizations—began planning last spring to make a visual impact in the community. Volunteers appeared before the City of Lewes and Bureau of Public Works with an idea: display actual photos of our hometown heroes on the town’s utility poles. The Military Banner Program was approved, and these banners—proudly saluting local veterans—were installed mid-May 2019, just before the arrival of the Vietnam Veterans Moving Wall and the Lewes Memorial Day Parade. Thirty banners were showcased along Savannah Road and Cape Henlopen Drive.

Avoiding Scams

We all receive calls from phone solicitors asking for contributions to charitable causes like support for veterans, schools, fire companies, police, cancer research, and even hunger campaigns. State area codes and local prefixes are displayed. The reality is the majority come from out of state phone banks spoofing local numbers. If you ask what percentage of your contribution will go the cause they represent they will admit it's only 10 cents on the dollar -- none of which may ever reach local charities.

But more ominous are the scammers who steal or compromise our identity. It's more common than you may think. It's happened to me multiple times. Scammers compete on ways to steal from us. They regularly use social media, text messages, computer alerts, phone calls – and even snail mail. Most are based on making us think we can get something for nothing or by fooling us into surrendering data that can be used to create fake accounts in our name or capturing personal information that's sold to others. Some common tactics include:

- “Click bait” offering the user a benefit or prize for clicking on a link. The link may include a virus that allows the scammer to access the owner's list of contacts and use the account as a slave robot that markets scam products to friends.
- “You've been named beneficiary of a multi-million dollar estate” (of someone you've never heard of); or “You've won a foreign lottery” (you never entered). Of course all you've got to do is send a substantial sum to cover delivery or taxes.
- A supposed police or IRS official calls to inform you a warrant has been issued for your arrest because of unpaid fines or taxes. The problem can be solved by paying over the phone with a credit card or by wiring money.
- A grandchild is in a foreign jail and needs money wired to pay for an attorney.
- A more financially devastating one is conning the victim into providing access to their bank account, including passwords, so a supposed refund for a past service can be “deposited directly” into the victim's account. The account is then emptied. Any voluntary submission of information that allows 3rd party access to an account negates any claim against the bank.
- A call from "Microsoft" informing you your computer has been compromised and is sending out your private information that can be fixed by turning control over to the scammer who will fix it for a fee.
- An email from a bank advising your account has been suspended because of fraudulent attempts to access it -- and all you need to do is confirm your access information. Your bank or the government will never request confidential information online or over the phone because they already have it. (See note above.) Looking at the sender's address provides a clue. They usually end in two letters like .fr (France) or .ru (Russia) or other country identifiers, or even .edu (education) that's been stolen. Incidentally, for financial transactions secure websites incorporate an S -- httpS//
- A text or email from a friend you trust (whose identity has been hacked) about a can't-miss offer that directs you to a website so you too may take advantage of the offer. Hint: there's no free money. Last year a friend phoned to thank me for telling him about the $50,000 grant he would receive by wiring $3,200 to a private account -- as I supposedly had. He insisted he and I had been exchanging text messages all day. We hadn't. His call saved him a lot of money.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY CARBONDALE
SIU EXTENDED CAMPUS

261 CHAD STREET, SUITE 304
DOVER AFB, DE 19902

Industrial Management and Applied Engineering Degree

SIU offers a Bachelor of Science degree in Industrial Management and Applied Engineering as a traditional campus program and through distance education. Through distance education, our program is offered both online and in a weekend format offered locally at Dover AFB in Delaware. Information on our distance education offerings can be found within the Technology Off-Campus Degree Programs.

Our program is one of the longest-accredited programs in the U.S. by the Association of Technology, Management, and Applied Engineering (ATMAE). Visit atmae.org for more information about our accreditors.

The Industrial Management and Applied Engineering major has as its objective the training of qualified personnel who can develop and direct the production and distribution of products and services. The major is designed to prepare management-oriented technical professionals in the economic-enterprise system.

About a third of the total hours will be in the University's Core Curriculum (courses required of all students pursuing a bachelor's degree) and will provide students with a broad background in the liberal arts and sciences to improve communication skills and to help them understand the world in which they will be making decisions.

The majority of the time will be spent taking Industrial Management and Applied Engineering Core requirements and technical electives that will help students meet their career objectives.

Industrial Management and Applied Engineering focuses on the management and business aspects of manufacturing. Highly demanded technical areas of the Industrial Management and Applied Engineering program include lean manufacturing, six sigma, supply chain, computer-aided manufacturing, manufacturing processes, and robotics. A well-rounded curriculum provides graduates with a variety of career options as engineers, managers, and supervisors.

Students will be well trained in the high-demand technical and managerial areas of:

- Six Sigma
- Lean manufacturing
- Quality control
- Computer-aided manufacturing
- Industrial robotics
- Manufacturing processes
- Industrial safety
- Facilities planning
- Cost estimating
- Personnel supervision
